Senate Expects Speedy Adoption of Rail Bill

CUMMINS PRESENTS REPORT APPROVED IN HOUSE SATURDAY

EMPSAIZES RATE GUARANTEE SECTION IS NOT PUBLIC EXPENSE.

LABOR OPPOSED

Union Heads Assail Wilson's Wage Proposal and Compromise Measure.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 23.—The conference report on the railroad bill passed Saturday night by the house, was called up in the senate by Senator Cummins, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, who obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration. Its speedy adoption was predicted.

Presenting the conference report, Senator Cummins emphasized that the rate guarantee section did not take a dollar out of the public treasury.

"In order to prejudice it among the people it has been termed a guaranty of income," he said. "This is not true. There is a guaranty in the bill of the standard return and against deficits continuing for six months after the railways are returned to their owners; but its necessity is denied."

The rate guarantee section is not a guaranty. Not a dollar is to be paid from the treasury on account of its provisions and no obligation whatever on the part of the government is created.

He said the bill merely directed the interstate commerce commission that, as far as practicable, it should make rates that would yield a net operating income of 5½ percent "upon the true value of the railway property."

Income Depends on Location.

The income would depend wholly upon location of the roads, the Iowa senator declared.

Discussing the anti-strike section on which the senate conferred yesterday, Senator Cummins said they "yielded simply to supreme necessity" and that they recognized that a railroad bill had to pass by March 1 or "chaos" would result.

"With respect to the labor provisions of the conference report," Senator Cummins added, "I am utterly unable to understand the opposition which they have aroused among labor leaders, for they leave all free men, whether employees or employers to do whatever they please, in the same place or under any circumstances."

Senator Cummins said that $1,200,000 had been appropriated for expenditure by the railroad administration.

Gives Estimates on Costs.

"We are now appropriating $500,000 more," he said, "but before the close of the present session there will be no appropriation of less than $400,000,000; in all, $2,150,000,000. Of this vast sum, it is expected the railroads will, during the next decade, pay to the government on the advances so made, and whatever in the aggregate will reduce the government's expenditures to something like $850,000,000 and this will represent the loss incurred in two years and two months of government operation."

"The amounts I have given you are government estimates and are to be deducted by the railroads and debited directly to the railroad administration."

President Wilson's proposal for settlement of the railroad wage controversy and the compromise railroad bill pending in the senate, were bitterly assailed in the conference here by the railroad union officials and galaxy of committee men who were called to Washington to discuss the settlement policy laid down by the president.

Representatives of the 15 organizations concerned in the settlement proposal met in secret session in as many different hotels, their purpose was to formulate their own views by majority rule and later meet in a general conference.

HOOVER OPPOSED TO MAKING TREATY CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Insists Injection of Arguments Would Obscure Domestic Needs.

(By Associated Press)

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 23.—Herbert C. Hoover, former food administrator, declared today in an address at Johns Hopkins University his opposition to making the ratification of the treaty with Germany an issue in the coming presidential campaign. He insisted the injection of arguments for and against resolutions would "obscure our pressing domestic issue by conflict over a question in which the country already made up its mind," and added, "It is my impression that there is no party credit for and against the treaty system."

Hoover said the board was aware of the implied power to reject the conditions of the treaty.

Hope for immediate ratification of the treaty rested, in the acceptance by the "lesser reservationists" of the principles of the "moderate reservationists."

The two combined, he said, could secure ratification if it also appears to us," he continued, "that even from the point of view of the 'lesser reservationists' they will have secured all of the fundamental principles and values of the League. If it can be put into being and it proves its living value in the world, no one can doubt that any necessary changes will be granted to us by common consent."

Hoover said the board was shown the latest proposals of the "moderate reservationists." The report said:

"Recommendations were made to congress for amendment of the bill so that it would permit reserve banks, with approval of the federal reserve board, to establish normal maximum lines of credit accommodation for member banks. An ascending scale of rates would be provided in event they were borrowed above the maximum line."

CLOSE FRIENDSHIP OF FATHER AND SON URGED IN CHURCHES

Yesterday was set aside in a nation-wide movement for the observance of Father and Son day. Fitting exercises were held in many of the local churches. At the First Christian church one of the classes of boys formed the choir and assisted in the exercises. This with the singing of "Adam and Eve," Rev. R. Bergman, Lloyd Saddington, president of the class. The boys sang an original song written for the occasion and recited a prayer in concert.

An interesting sermon rich in common sense and adventure was delivered by the pastor, Rev. H. T. Brown, on the topic "The Prodigal Father." He narrated the story of a rich man who was too busy to become a companion to his boy, who, when neglected, showed him how to die.

Some of the precepts which he recommended for fathers were, to give the sons warning against evil, to set a good example for them, avoiding profanity, by educating them that they have great possibilities within them to do great things, and by being a close companion to the boy.

At the Baptist evening service, J. C. Kohler of the T. C. A. gave a talk on "Americanization." He made a plea for better, cleaner manhood, and more patriotic ideals. Patriotic songs were sung by the audience.

At the United Brethren church A. C. Preston, boys secretary of the T. C. A., gave a address.

In the morning, E. A. Fien, Waukesha, secretary of the Rock County Sunday School association, supplied the pulpit in the absence of Rev. J. Hart Truesdale. He gave an address along educational lines, urging vigorous training for the young people. Mrs. Irl Jeffries sang a solo.

West he is called the Yellow-hair Porcupine from the color which his coat takes there. Sometimes he weighs as much as 30 pounds.

The Canada Porcupine is not a hedgehog and should never be called by that name. Mr. Hedgehog has been in Europe and has never emigrated to America. He is much smaller and weaker than Porky. He is not a gnawing animal but feeds on insects. So be very careful not to confuse the two. It would be a most great insult to Porky.

CHURCHES PROTEST CONSTANTINOPLE IDEA

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

London, Feb. 23.—Protests against the Turks retaining their hold upon Constantinople were made in several churches here yesterday. The subject came up to be conspicuous in services of the Anglican, London, and other English cities.

The archbishops of Canterbury and York, other leading clergymen, university professors, literary and scientific men and politicians have joined in a protest to Lloyd George, opposing a policy which would leave Constantinople in Turkish hands.

A strong attack is made upon the government by the Times, which alleges that the present reversal of policy which Lloyd George and his colleagues have had to pledge to the effect, even in 1914, that they would not go to war before members of the labor party before members of the labor party. Moreover, the Mail says, his considerations of dispossessing the Turks would have a serious effect upon measons and industrialists.

He is said to have prepared a compromise by which Turkish influence would be restricted to the city of Constantinople.

Bolshevik Seize Murmansk
And Shipping in Harbor

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

London, Feb. 23.—British forces have seized Murmansk and shipping in the harbor there following a revolution which broke out at that port Saturday afternoon, according to a Lloyd's dispatch from Vardo, Norway.

Murmansk is situated on the Kola peninsula, northwest of Archangel and across the White sea from the district which was taken over by the Bolsheviks last week.

Murmansk is the discovery of a North Carolina agriculturist who found his tonic valuable in Salvia form, the standard time tested remedies. Camphor—Menthol—Eucalyptus—Thyme, etc.—so that when the salvo is applied to the body heat, these ingredients are liberated in the form of vapors.

Vicks is particularly recommended for children's colds or colds, since it is externally applied and therefore can be used freely and often without the slightest harmful effects.

The best evidence of the value of Vicks is the steady increase in number of people who have been converted to the use of this "outside" treatment.

Beginning with the customers of a small retail drug store, the use of Vicks has grown—year by year—until now nearly 17 million jars are used annually.

And this in spite of the fact that Vicks is a new form of treatment to many folks in the North and West. Vicks can be had at all drugstores in three sizes—30c, 60c or $1.20.

His right name is porcupine but he is nicknamed "Porky" by woodsmen for a play, select the story of one central character in a struggle with his surroundings. Rip Van Winkle is a good example. AN ALBERTA DAY

BY PAUL E. PAGE.

I pushed my boat up to a point of rushes in an Alberta lake in the gray of a frosty September morning last fall. There was no sign of living being about, no sound of water, just the rush as the boat pressed it to the shore.

I had set up my decoys consisting of nine ducks, no two alike, and one black sea brant. These I had set up on the farm with which I was staying, who told me he had had them from his father, who used them on the salt water marshes years before in eastern Canada. One was interesting to me, it being made out of cork with a wooden base, and a pair of copper nails, with ends split, and driven through the body and clinched over the weight lead on the bottom. It was about the size of a bluebird, but what it was painted to represent I could not guess, as I never before saw any bird like it either awake or in dreams.

Open Water in Front

In front of my blind was an open pool of water, perhaps 80 yards to the north this open water extended for quite a distance.

Back of me was a solid bed of rushes clear to the shore of the lake cut through by one narrow strip of water through which I had made my way to the blind. Out in front and beyond the fringe of rushes that bordered the open water was a continuation of rushes and open patches of water for nearly a mile. The map showed the lake to cover some five thousand acres.

To the south and distant some two miles was another group of about the same size as the open water, consisting of about two hundred acres.

I had come to the lake the evening before over the protest of friends who told me there was never any shooting on this lake. The location looked good to me on the map and the realization of a ticked map was a great relief.

As I was walking along the open water I saw a few ducks swimming about, but nothing else.

Then I heard a noise and then another, and another, and another, and another, and another.

U.S. MUST INTERVENE IN MEXICO DECLARES FORMER LOCAL MAN

Intervention in Mexico by Americans is the only way in which a stable form of government can ever be established there was the declaration of H. S. Gilkey testifying before the Senate committee investigating Mexican affairs. Mr. Gilkey, a Minneapolis man, is well known in Janesville, where he made his home some time ago.

In his examination by the Senate foreign relations committee he represented a Minneapolis company which in 1920 acquired a ranch in the state of Oaxaca, in the western part of Mexico. The outfit was said to be $25,000.

Janesville Catholics Hear National Message

Members of both Catholic churches in Janesville listened yesterday to the pastoral letter of archbishops and bishops sent throughout the nation by James Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore. The letter was read in part at each of the four masses at St. Patrick's church and three at St. Mary's. It was the first time in 35 years that such a letter had been read in all the churches of the country.

The document follows:

AMERICA'S PLEDGE TO THE Beloved Brethren of the Laity

Thirty-five years have elapsed since the Fathers of the Church addressed their Council of Trent, in the year 1563, to the faithful of their charge. In proclaiming our purpose we held up our country and its institutions as the bulwark of the common good.

The interval has been marked by events of far-reaching import. The greatest of these, the World War, is finally ended. And now that God's mercy has restored us to the nations, we must, like the Israelites, have a craze for pleasure, it is likely to pervert the whole meaning of life. A people that live on entertainments and amusements will soon lose its moral fiber.

The power of endurance is directly proportioned to the power of self-respect. And we may need the use of these principles when America is passing through the gravest crisis in its history.

In this matter, appeal with all patriotic earnestness to Catholic women. We urge them especially to do their duty in the cause of their country.

When we got to Mexico City, we went into the war and ended it. In any material sense we had nothing to gain. We fought for all mankind. We will labor for our country's advantage. As their patriotic efforts were united to such good effect through the war, so will they be in the future.

The island of 20 small dwelling houses, an orphanage and a hotel and it is planned to erect barracks and provide tents for persons who are unable to find water and food supplies. The Red Cross is planning to have a week's supply of water and food always on hand.

To secure the practical recognition and exercise of both rights, going no less than an amnesty and a general amnesty and a general pardon should first be cleared away. When this is done, then the practice made in friendly, rather than in military, trials, which makes it possible to effect a conclusion.

We are confident that the good sense of our people will find a way to meet the present situation. As the confusion occasioned by war subsides, calmer judgment will prevail. Men will see that all classes must be secured. If our country is to enjoy prosperity at home and opportunities abroad, we must not be sacrificed to selfish or partisan interests. We made war upon greed and selfish ambition. The Island of Provo, about 10 miles off the Asiatic shore of the southwest entrance to the Isthmus, has been given over to the Constantinople chapter of the American Red Cross and under direction of Rear Admiral Bristol and Major Charles Davis, preparations for arrival of Red Cross ships are being made.

Catholics will do their full share to help the complete restoration of peace and order. We will give occasion for joint endeavor in furtherance of the common good.

To attain these worthy ends, social organization must remain within reasonable limits. When it interferes with the duties of home, it defeats its own purpose. When it becomes too elaborate, it becomes a craze for pleasure, it is likely to pervert the whole meaning of life. A people that live on entertainments and amusements will soon lose its moral fiber.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

The growth of the church in our country is not yet restored to its normal condition. On every side there is a demand for missionaries to minister to the poor and ignorant.

But we cannot forget that we owe a duty to the missions in other countries. Freely we have received, freely we have given. Therefore we must have a generous response to all matters affecting the Church and Catholic life.

PROGRESS OF RELIGION

Under the guidance of three illustrious popes—Pius XI, Benedict XV, and Pius XII—the Church has shown.

Through the war is ended, our country is not yet restored to its normal condition. On every side there is a demand for missionaries to minister to the poor and ignorant.

We rejoice with our brothers of the clergy in the splendid results of their labors among the poor, preaching the Word of God, administering the sacraments and establishing schools and buildings.

You, dear fellow citizens of the United States, are earnestly command for your faith, for your zeal in supporting the cause of religion, and for your hearty cooperation with your pastor's holy works. With great charity you respond to their appeals for the welfare of the poor, the helpless little ones of the world.

You have shown your Godly custom nor fashion can justly be blamed.

ABOUT CONFIDENCE BETWEEN RICH AND POOR

This is not a time for us to be afraid of the rich, or to be afraid of the poor. We rejoice in the fact that the prescriptions of plain decency and even the slightest restraints of convention too often disregarded.

WE REJOICE IN THE RESTORATION OF THE HOLY CHURCH

The disturbance from which our industries are suffering brings home to all the people in direct and practical form the need of thorough reconstruction. In the present situation the real cause is due to the war; but its real cause lies farther back in our industrial history. It is not new that we owe a duty to the missions in other countries. Freely we have received, freely we have given. Therefore we must have a generous response to all matters affecting the Church and Catholic life.

THE HOLY FAITH

In the middle of the morning of war, the Pope gave his thoughts and energy without reserve to those in every country who are suffering and helpless. With the restoration of the Holy Father, we are making for the support and encouragement of our Catholic Missionaries.

AWAY FROM THE WORLD.
It's good for a fellow to walk away.
From the busy world and the noisy day;
It's good for him now and then to turn
From the crowded streets, where there's gold to earn,
And spend some time in a quiet zone
And be for a little while alone.

It's good for a man to take his ease,
In the shade of the wise and ancient trees;
To lie by a stream that has danced along
Since the world began with its right and wrong,
And spend some time with the constant things
That have outlived empires and crowns and kings.

It is good for a man when the spring comes back,
To get away from the beaten track;
To quit the hurry and fret and grind
Of the daily tasks, and rest his mind
In the fields and woods, where the air is clean,
And ponder awhile on what has been.

So when spring returns and the trees awake,
And the streams the shackles of winter break,
It is good for a man to leave the crowd,
And turn from the eager and rich and proud,
To walk alone where the skies are fair—
For he shall strengthen his faith out there.

production commensurate with the time occupied. One result is that certain products are being turned out in Germany at a fraction of the cost expended in England. These articles are being imported into England, where they are crowding out goods of native manufacture.

The lesson is not merely that everyone must work at something, but work for all he'll worth. This latter point is not covered in the Italian legislator's bill, but something will be accomplished if the last boaster is rounded up and made to help turn the wheels of industry. No country, these days, can afford to support tramps, by whatever name they are known.

Mr. Morgantheau says another European war is possible. But if it comes it will be the last. After another war there wouldn't be enough left of Europe to fight over.

Their Opinions

Women will not take well to politics. What woman would throw her hat in the ring?—Wisconsin State Journal.

We met the man yesterday who used to say, he guessed he would look around and see if he couldn't find something cheaper. When we met him he was saying, "Wrap it up."—Detroit News.

THIRTY AGAINST WASTE.

There is reported the case of the French wife of an Iowa soldier who suffered a nervous collapse because of her horror at the waste she witnessed in the home of her husband. It is conceivable that a woman reared to practice the thrift that is ascribed to the French would be appalled at the abundance found in the average American home, though to succumb to illness because of what she saw would provide an extreme instance. Naturally one who has been taught to practice economy in the use of food and to permit nothing to go to waste finds much in American practices that might be reformed.

As a people we have produced in abundance and naturally we have consumed likewise. We have not felt the pinch that has forced the people of other nations to restrict themselves. The earliest settlers became meat eaters because the forests were full of game and meat was easily obtainable. That practice has continued, though we have switched from game to the meat of domestic animals. However, the war gave us quite a shock in that it taught us that our meat supply was limited.

Unquestionably there could be greater frugality in the average home. The insistent necessity for a restricted menu doubtless would show many wastes that could be eliminated, but because dire circumstance has not compelled such action, consumption on a generous standard, with attendant waste, goes on. The time may come when the American household will be compelled to practice the frugality of the French, but since that time has not arrived we maintain old habits and in many instances waste what would furnish appetizing and nourishing meals for those more thrifty than ourselves.

JOGGING THE LEISURE CLASS.

"A tax on laziness" is the name given to a measure which has been introduced in the Italian parliament penalizing all able-bodied citizens between the ages of 20 and 65 who refuse to work. The money derived from fines under the proposed law would be used to maintain persons who are unable to work and to operate agricultural colonies to which the lazy would be sent.

forever. "It isn't too much to say that my wife and I have been within me over there to Erivan," she says.

She has seen living children in the shelters sleeping in the mud, and everybody is having such a good time being extravagant, then the Near East Relief has a suggestion to make for promoting it. Its treasurer wants to do it, but we don't know what we raised the little ones did we see the matresses were blackened bodies of their companions, some of them dead for several days. I asked some of the children why they slept on the ground. They said, "We have nothing to have something to sleep on to keep their almost naked bodies from the frozen ground."

"If you had seen children in the streets of Erivan, you would have seen the bones of little children, the cemeteries bodies had been stolen and the next day were seen in the cooking pots of the refugees, human bones, what would you say?"

In normal times, Miss Chamberlain says, Erivan had a population of 35,000; but last winter there were at least 400,000 people in the city. They congested the streets, alleys, courtyards, ruined houses, buildings, puddling anywhere that provided the slightest shelter from the pitiless, penetrating rain of the Caucasus that chills even the warmly clad to the bone. The once rich and poor who had fled before the Turks were the same people of masses, thousands died of cold and starvation, but others poured in to replace them.

Refugees are still pouring into Erivan, but conditions are now improving owing to the persistence and interest work of the Near East Relief.

"I am afraid I shall never regain my old outlook on life," said a young relief worker just back from Armenia, who visited the headquarters of the organization the day before he came to America. He pointed to his house in New England. "I am not a good person for you to talk to concerning conditions over there, because I saw so much suffering that it seems actually commonplace to me. When you live amidst scenes of misery, you are bound to get used to it."

"I thought I would never feel horror-struck again, but I did. It was when I reached New York, and walked up Fifth Avenue, and saw all the marvelous luxury of its show windows, the expensive furnishings blocking traffic, the thousands of satin-covered boxes of bonbons on display in the big candy stores. For the price of one of these limousines a hundred Syrian tables could have been fed; for the price of one car an Armenian family could have been supplied with flour for a month.

Beggars Shiver in Streets

"I suppose my viewpoint is quite morbid, but you see I have just come from Erivan, where the streets are lined with shivering beggars, barefooted, their emaciated bodies wrapped only in bits of sackcloth. Winter is bleak and cold in this part of Asia, and the population is totally unprepared for it, for only the shreds of filthy rags and rags on the streets numb with cold, whimpering with pain. Often they are compelled to fight off the hungry parish dogs which driven by hunger attack any living creature, even the helpless or exhausted who are too helpless or exhausted to defend themselves to come for aid, but every day we come across dead bodies in corners where the poor people had dragged themselves, seeking shelter from the blizzard."

The young woman spoke in a calm, dispassionate voice; her eloquence was cold and unanimated. She complained of this herself. "If I could only make you people here at home feel what I had felt, then it is all gone."

Miss Louise Chamberlain, another American girl who has just returned from service in the Near East Relief, hospitable at Erivan, also complains that her outlook on life is changed

VETERAN ICE CREAM MAKER CELEBRATING GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Fifteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Shurtliff, 312 South Main street, were bride and groom living in a log cabin near Lodi. Today they still the bride and groom, only their setting has changed to that of a new red brick house furnished in the latest mode, with four generations assembled to do honor to the golden wedding anniversary of one of Wisconsin's pioneer ice cream manufacturers.

The anniversary party was held yesterday when the entire family of children, grandchildren and one great-grandchild spent the day with them.

Those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mutherger and son, Harry; Miss Romana Whetstone, all of Watertown (Mrs. Mutherger was formerly Miss Claribel Shurtliff); Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shurtliff and their children, Sarah, John, Frances, Paul, Mrs. Earl Fuzzell and their daughter, Myrtle Marlon, (Mrs. Fuzzell was formerly Miss Genevieve Shurtliff); and Merle Shurtliff, a grandson, who has always made his home with his grandparents.

Mrs. Muthergers mother was formerly Mrs. Myrtle Shurtliff, passed away some years ago. She was the mother of Mrs. Fuzzell, Romona and Merle.

Wedding Postponed.

It was in 1916 at Lodi that the wedding ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents. Here, in her story, Mrs. Shurtliff confided that the ceremony was set for Washington's birthday, but as the minister, Rev. Sam Dillen, was an old man, his health deteriorating, the roads were hardly passable. It was postponed until the day following.

The romance began when the two were playmates on a farm near Lodi where Mrs. Shurtliff was born and where Mrs. Shurtliff moved to from Utica, New York, with her parents when she was three years old. She is 76 years old and she is still too young to tell her age.

A few years after they were married, Mr. and Mrs. Shurtliff moved to Janesville, where he engaged in the confectionery business. At first like all other dealers, made his own candies in the back room of the store. At various times he had stores where the Savoy cafe is now, where the Rossobro store operates and directly across the street from it.

A veteran of the ice cream business, Mr. Shurtliff today commented on the growth of the business. It was just 33 years ago that he moved to the present site, retiring from business last July, leaving the manufacturing to his sons, Harry, and partner, Charles A. Coulton.

Business Grows Large.

"People have certainly acquired the habit of eating ice cream at all times," the manufacturer said today. "The first winter we had in our small business, we only made ice cream twice, and that was for two big parties. It was difficult for people to get the habit at first of not making their own ice cream or eating it in the winter, but times have changed so that now we make more than twice as much as ever in summer. Our trade in outside cities is even greater than the city trade, until now we ship cream to cities and towns in all directions for 150 miles."

Mrs. Shurtliff has all his life made a special study of ice cream and has manufactured every kind of cream to suit every taste. He has studied with confectioners in Chicago learning the newest thing in desserts, bringing back to Lodi new ideas of cakes, creams, jello and sherberts. Now, although retired, Mr. Shurtliff is as interested in the progress of ice cream and Janesville as he was 40 years ago.

And the company, just to show that it can, has decided to manufacture delicate creams sent a huge wedding cake to the bride and groom yesterday. The cake, molded entirely from products of the company, had yellow frosting glazing it, the date of the marriage being done in cherries and the center filled with vanilla ice cream.

WOOL MILL WORKERS HAVE CO-OP STORE

(By Associated Press)

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 23.—The American Woolen company has inaugurated a system of retail stores at its four mills in this city in an effort to reduce the cost of living for the 15,000 operatives. Staple commodities are sold at a price below that of local merchants in line says William M. Wood, president of the company.

A central warehouse is administered by representatives of the company and a committee elected by representatives of several mills who negotiate with individual mill committees. Ultimately, according to a statement by an official of the company today, it is planned to have the workers finance and operate the stores themselves.

The company now is distributing groceries, shoes, underclothes, sweaters, canned goods, overalls, socks and other staples. The prices, it is said, are substantially those at wholesale plus a charge for overhead expenses. At present distribution is in bulk, the workers in each mill dividing case lots.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Five years ago I kept company with a girl my own age. She was exceptionally pretty, talented, educated in college and had a few friends and many admirers. Her parents and my parents had been pals from childhood. They were most happy because they were sure we would marry in time.

Then I met away to a large city where I met a fellow who I thought was a good boy. He had a good name, but brought him, who had become nearly a pauper, because I could do anything with him. I put him to work with us and he stayed at our house. He went with me everywhere and I thought I was educated.

On Sunday I took my lady friend and secured another for him. We took a long trip to a lake, but this fellow couldn't leave my friend alone. He stuck like glue and I had failed to educate him in etiquette and manners. Finally I discharged him. He went away and I found out that he went to see her very often.

I decided I would forget her by going to school, but got her again.

Then the war was over. She told the other fellow she did not care for him and not to come back. After she had said this I went with another girl more beautiful than she and all told, I gave her because for her all and never did or never will. She wrote the other fellow, who came back immediately.

She is going to marry the boy with the bad record for generations back. He has no money to go abroad with, but I hope they come out all right.

Will you tell me who is the fool, the girl or myself?

GLAD TO HAVE FOUND HER OUT.

I think you're right. You hundred times for revenge. It is not up to you to punish a higher hand with more sense of justice could take care of that.

You say of the man, "He has no money to go ahead." Perhaps not, but if he has love in his heart, the girl or myself?

WHAT IS A NEUROSTIC?

I like this nerve specialist's view of neurostics—which he calls a better term than the older neurosthenia—because it agrees so well with what I have heard about it. When I said at the beginning that it had good sense. People with good sense who agree with us about something. "Common sense," we freely implore to any one that says something we think may be so.

"Shell shock" was a war neurosis, and the victim was, for the time being at least, typically neurotic. A nerve specialist with rather more common sense than many of us thinks that neurosis, which was neurosis, is largely the same in quality as the everyday neurosis of civilian life. The soldier develops shell shock as a means of getting out of the trenches and back away from danger—quite unconsciously, of course, as he is so deeply as a hysterical woman has been under exciting circumstances. When the soldier's endurance of horror has become exhausted he can't turn and run away; he develops a neurosis and goes into the hospital where comfort and safety are to be had. The loss of an arm would bring the same solace, and in that case the neurosis would not occur.

In peace this nerve specialist points out neuroses develop when the individual can find no other way to surmount an obstacle. Perhaps it is true. It is also true that neuroses can cause brain fever. (A. M. F.) Answer—No. "Brain fever" is an old-fashioned name for meningitis, the inflammation of the membranes which cover the brain and lines the skull. Meningitis is caused by the invasion of germs through the nose and mouth or through the ear from the middle ear and mastoid cells. Thus the dear old Laura Jean type of "brain fever" from "unremitting" headache and spurned passion, passed with Laura.

WILL CHILDREN HAVE FATHER'S DISEASE?

Will children have father's disease? A neurotic, I suppose, would say "yes." But children may have it, too. And they may have symptoms now; the infection may remain latent or smoldering for years, then become active tuberculosis if the child neglects to take the right laws of health. You and the children should have examinations by your physician at regular intervals for the next two or three years.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY

"Smile," I asked as we were having our last breakfast in the little New York flat before leaving for home. "Others, why don't you still love me after the awful way I have behaved?"

"Because—of the awful way you behave, I guess," laughed Jim. "Because you were womanly enough to be weak and brave enough to come to you when I was. Why do you still love me and want to come back?" he asked suddenly.

"Because you are stronger than I," I answered. "Because your firmness showed me how wrong I was. And you just wouldn't stand aside and let me do without me."

"I couldn't do without you, Ann!" Jim spoke impulsively—for him. "You don't know what I went through up there in that dreary house until your letter came."

"Tell me, Jim, if I hadn't sent that letter would you ever have—"

Jim rushed around the table and closed my lips with a kiss, not letting me finish.

"What could be telling?" he grinned. "But since we're cross-examining each other, suppose you tell me why you changed your mind about that career of yours?"

"I haven't changed it. I've only put my ambition in its true place. Chambers shall always believe women—includand make a million dollars."

Quaint Designs Feature Frocks

girl will be happier with him than you, since you find joy in beauty.

Try to be more gentle and remember that riches are nothing if you have love in your heart.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl sixteen years old and have been going with a boy for two years now. We are engaged. Do you think we are doing wrong by keeping it a secret? I have always been a good girl and tried to live a clean life. I have no mother or relative to go to for advice.

My friend is now sick in bed. Do you think people would talk if I went to see him? Would it be all right to take him flowers?

I THANK YOU.

I do not believe in secret engagements. Usually one party is giving itself a good time to get out of the engagement without people knowing it. If he does not want to marry, either remain friends, or announce your engagement.

It would be all right to call to see him and to take flowers.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two school girls, wanting you to answer a few questions, please. Next month a class of girls are going to have a leap year party. Each girl is supposed to invite a boy. We want to know what to do when inviting the boy.

Please print some games for leap year, also give us some suggestions for lunch for February 14.

A is five feet three inches and is sixteen years old and B is five feet four inches tall and sixteen years old. What should we do?

JANE AND BETTY.

You had better plan the party off the first thing so that no girl's invitation can be duplicated as a leap year refusal is more embarrassing than under ordinary conditions.

You can have it understood that the boys are to meet at some stated place and you can start all together.

There are no special games for leap year, but any games in which the boys and girls have separate halves will be fun. Sandwiches, cakes and ices should of course be in heart shape, and candies should be garnished with tiny hearts cut from picketed hearts.

A should weigh 117 pounds and B

Here are some of the outstanding features of the clothes for the coming season which you will want to use:

Shoulders are built on long lines and sleeves loose, in three-quarter effects.

Novelty tailored effects are made with zippered back and draped jacket. Long redingotes in a Director's road to the hem of the skirt.

Plants are finished in scallops and dresses of uneven lengths, divided by drapings. Fabric flounces alternate with lace.

Skirts are very wide and bouffant.

Tucks of taffeta are a new conceit about neck and sleeve tops. Then there is the looped barrel hip.

Entire dresses are to be seen made of black and white stripes with color motifs. Toward pleats, or cradle bands, wide double collars, wide neck and ruchings are more of the distinguishing features of the 1920 mode.

SOME of the dresses have plain fronts and flounced backs. Double bow bows draping in the back are suggestive of the bustle.

After canvassing the entire country for a successor to Dr. Arthur Stiles, superintendent of the public schools, the Los Angeles board of education selected a woman for the position which carries a salary of $3,000 per annum. The choice fell to Mrs. Susan M. Dorsey, formerly acting principal of the Los Angeles high school, who also served as assistant to principal of the city school. She is vice president of the National Educational association and has been prominent in educational work since 1906.

The sheepman spoke, looking straight at his toe. "I've just heard the news," he said, "down at Yester's ranch when you phoned asking if they had seen anything of Miss Cullison. I came up to ask you one question. When was she seen last?"

"About ten o'clock this morning. Why?"

"I saw her about noon. She was on Mesa Verde, headed for Blue Springs. It looked like—"

"Close enough to speak to her?"

"Sam asked."

"Yes. We passed the time of day."

"And then?" Luck cut back into the conversation with a voice like a file.

"She went on toward the gulch and I kept on to the ranch. The last I saw her she was going straight on. We'd better travel over toward Mesa Verde, so as to be ready to start at daybreak."

Cullison's gaze had never left him. It observed, weighed, appraised.

"Good enough. We'll start."

He left Sweetwater, where the telephone office was away. All of their windows were already out, covering the hills under the supervision of Curly. Luck had waited with Sam only to get some definite information before starting. Now he had his lead. Fendrick was either telling the truth or was playing with some sinister purpose in view.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimplies—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you many a cut of all sizes comes from irritating bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 10c and 25c.

Dinner Stories:

Johnson had been dining out with some friends. When he left to go home he found himself in a very narrow pathway. He found himself descending a flight of steps. This he felt sure was not right, and hearing that from Satan's name you would have imagined it more likely to have come from him; but in reality that goat was as meek as a lamb and Satan was as tame as a lamb.

Satan, for in his heart he was as mischievous as Satan, was the head of the house, and he was as mischievous as Satan.

The wedding went off beautifully and the groom, minister and all the others kissed the bride and you never saw a sweater one than poor little Nanny with her gentle ways; and to think she was going to marry a goat! And when she had you been looking, you would have seen an unusual commotion among the goats when there were turned loose after milking time to graze in the meadow during the night, as they were allowed to do when the weather was fine; and to night was an ideal night with a low hungry moon that lit up everything as bright as day.

I know you are anxious to hear what the communion was all about, so I will tell you. Billy and Nanny were to be married by the old person goat of the flock, and then they were all going to break through the neighbor's fence into his turnip patch and eat up all his turnips.

The farmer who owned the field happened to look out of his window one morning while dressing and saw the goats. He hurried into his boots, and hatless and coatless started out of the house, calling his dogs to follow him.

The first thing the flock knew, several does were barking and biting at their heels. Billy kept close to Nanny and when a dog came up to them he hooked him howling up into the air. Soon the goats were all on their side of the fence again and the neighbor was fixing up his fence as best he could, scolding all the time he did so, saying,

"I'll sue Farmer Windlass for the damage my goats have done, so I will, for the hateful things have eaten up all my turnips, tops and all."

Several days after this when the goats were all in the meadow, and Nanny was lying down under a tree for a nap, Billy, who was tired of the monotony of going day after day to the same place, stole off and went up to the house to see what amusement he could find.

He found the door open, so he came to a white-washed rail fence that separated the pasture from the lane that led to the house. This he went over easily by taking it at a running jump. Then he followed the lane until he came to the house, the door of which was closed. He then ran across the lane by a picked fence; but as good luck would have it, the gate was open, so Billy walked in and went around to the kitchen door.

(Billy's adventures in the house will be told tomorrow.)

It is needless to say that this scheme originated in Billy's head.

"Somewhere into the hills. His idea will be to walk down and get across the line into Santa Fe. He's a rotten bad lot, but he won't do her any harm unless he's pushed to the wall. The fear of Luck Cullison is in his heart."

"That's about it," nodded Luck. "It's somewhere in these hills unless he's probably staying in the city."

"There's a chance he'll make for one of my sheep camps to lay in a supply. Wouldn't it be a good idea to keep a man stationed at each one of them?"

"You're talking sense," Cullison agreed. "Sam, ride back and get in touch with Curly. Tell him to do that. And rouse the whole country over the wire. We'll run him down and feed him to the coyotes."

WALWORTH

WALWORTH, Feb. 23.—Mrs. F. R. Powell is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Charles Pratt.

The Walworth school faculty has presented to the school board a petition for a $100 bonus for the school year. They claim the salary they receive is not sufficient for their living expenses.

Mrs. Charles Pratt, Janesville, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Driver.

The S. D. A. convention, which was to have been held this week, has been indefinitely postponed on account of so much sickness.

Friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kellman Saturday night to give them a fare-well reception. They will soon move to town.

Aunt Mary has been introduced to all the friends of the family, while visiting her brother, Ned, whom like her was trying to discover if her nieces favored any young man especially.

That young Mr. Smarte, who seems to be a clever sort of man, Maude, she began to say, is clever.

"What is he by profession?"

"A bit of lawyer and a bit of musician," replied Maude. "He is clever."

"What is he really?" asked Auntie, puzzled.

"Well," exclaimed the girl, "he says he is a musician, and the musicians say he is a lawyer."

"Certainly," Ned replied. The stranger, politely, "if you go straight on, you will walk into the river!" I have just come out!"

Blues Overcome Edgerton's Lead and Win 23-9

LOCAL HIGH SHOWS BRILLIANT STYLE IN SECOND HALF

By supreme change in style of playing from that used in the first to a dashing, crashing offensive, the Janesville high school basketball team defeated Edgerton high on the local court Saturday night.

Edgerton started off with a hang-up form that ran the locals off their feet. Throughout the opening period, the visitors showed to better advantage, easily outplaying Janesville, executing better and faster passes and holding to fewer fouls, while the Blues were bad on the defensive, erratic on passes and wild. As a result the score at half time was 8 to 6 in favor of Edgerton.

Edgerton's Wake Up
But with the opening of the final period, the local school boys woke up. They went into the game with greater pep, they started closer passing, held to short passes, got clamped, the blues were tight on guard, and soon bewildered the boys from Tobacco town that they held them to one point, that made on a free throw, and went ahead by leaps until they more than doubled the score at the end.

Janesville looked doomed in the first half. Heller, star left forward of the visitors, opened the scoring when he made two free throws on fouls by Powers and Tunstead. He was the individual performer of the game, making 10 points of Edgerton's total. But in the second half a strong cordon of guards kept him down, although it must be said that he was particularly unfortunate, as were a few of his mates, in seeing the ball-drawn on the rim of the basket and fall out.

Janesville Rough

Heller made the first field goal when the Janes left the field open and with the locals resorting to bush stuff he made another free throw to send the score to 6-6. For the balance of the half, the Blues were guilty of considerable rough play, which is illustrated by six personals and when Edgerton apparently had the edge of luck, he suffered for it while the other team lost heart and spirit. But when Gridley and Tunstead made a series of fields and Edgerton added a point on a free throw on Gridley's foul, they jumped back into form as the score became tied. The playing from then on was rapid, close and of far better form, with both Ordern and Heller tussled. The Janes had chances to take the long end of the score, but their shooting eye was bad. The half was brought to a close when Heller slammed the sphere through the basket and fell out.

Gridley and Tunstead started something in the second half when they worked innumerable passes that made on goal. The last ten minutes of the last half showed see-saw plays, but not a single counter, until Hager came along with a well placed goal and tied the score. He followed with another, but Referee Craig declared the ball dead and the goal did not count. They got their chance to take the lead when Hager caught a free throw on Ordern's foul.

The Janes were getting their team work down and Powers, Gridley and Hager were in wonderfully fast motion of dribbling three-quarters of the floor, dodging players and scored the goal that made certain the victory for Janesville. The balance of the game was one-sided. Edgerton was outclassed.

THE GOLDEN TWENTIES

Youth sends the golden twenties
To keep us when we're old;
The portion richly spent is Ever ours to hold.

The twenties buy you laughter
(With just a trace of tears);
That lights forever after
Our reminiscent years.

But he who wastes his twenties
On bread that turns to stone;
Some day will sure repent his
Dry crust he eats alone!

Who steals from youth its treasure
Shall do it to his loss;
Fame will seize the treasure
And turn the gold to dross.

With partners gay and tragic
In tavern, temple, camp,
I've shared the twenties' magic,
With priest and prince and tramp.

Still all my gold but lent is,
At sunset I shall see
My precious golden twenties
Come rolling back to me.

Lots of cafes and things. Sorry, I spent that money for leather leggings.

The sun shined all day. Lots of off-cers and girls in this town, after a swell one and a half hours a little swell again. Little did she dream of a second lieutenant. Must see
Notre Dame tomorrow. Oh, you
Paris.

Friday.

More sunshine this morning. Up early. Started for Notre Dame but got sidetracked. Had a swell dinner for two. To the Folies

Bergere tonight. Ten francs left.

Don't mind saluting these officers soon as getting the one, two, myself.

Must see Notre Dame tomorrow, and get souvenirs.

Saturday.

On the train, 4 a.m. Sunday morning. Paris a great town. Intended to buy souvenirs at the Folies

in the morning but ran out of coin and had to stop at the Red Cross.

Sent some postcards, though.

EIGHT TEAMS MAY ENTER CHURCH BASKETBALL

With the hopes that eight teams will take part in the church basketball league which will hold a meeting for final formation at the Y. M. C. A. at 8:15 tomorrow evening, W. Porter Craig, physical director of the "Y," and who will have supervision of the league, has given out tentative plans. It is expected that the league will run on the same plan as last year with possibility of being based upon church attendees' membership in the church not being necessary.

The managers of the teams are asked to be on hand tomorrow that the league may get under way immediately. It is desired to start playing the games Saturday evening.

Committees on schedules and rules and the officials will be decided upon at the meeting tomorrow.

Tentative rules, which will be voted upon tomorrow follow. No church will be permitted to come into the league unless it is affiliated with the Federated Methodist, Baptist, St. Patrick, St. Paul, First Lutheran and St. Paul's will enter teams. From what material is available at these churches, it is expected that St. Patrick's, winners of the Gazette cup in last year's tournament, will be a formidable army. However, a question has arisen whether Cassidy may play since he has played with the Cardinals this year. This matter will be decided tomorrow.

ALL-STARS IN WIN OVER 'YOUNG' FAIRIES BY SCORE OF 25-11

Although slow in starting the "Y"

All-Stars defeated the Fairy Apprentices at Beloit Saturday night 25-11.

At the end of the first half the local boys had only a one point lead, 8-7, but came back in the second with a spurt that took them far in the advance.

First scoring was made by the Fairies when McIntyre dropped in a long one from Stern. From the side, Foster, 1st base, hit a double and scored on a wild pitch by Schaefer.

McIntyre rounded up Gauthier.

The Alert Investor

is always awake to a better opportunity for investing his money.

You perhaps are looking for a place to invest part of your funds where the principal will be safe and the interest returns certain.

To you, we recommend the form of security known as Farm Mortgage Bonds. For security, you have a first mortgage on a large, income producing farm or ranch worth three or four times the amount loaned. These large farms are operated by experienced and capable men who have made a success in their operations and use the money borrowed for the purchase of more land or live stock.

Not once, in our business experience of over a quarter century, has an investor lost a dollar of interest or principal through investments like these. Very often the bonds are called before maturity at a premium, making a very satisfactory interest return on the investment. We can always place this money immediately in another security, equally as good, thus avoiding any delay in reinvestment and consequent loss of interest.

There is no safer security than these
